

Tips for Interviewing with ESL Schools:

After preparing documents and a good application package, the first step in securing a position is to receive a job offer. Applicants can either pass or fail their interview so it is key to be prepared and maximise your chances of receiving an offer.

Once a teacher receives an offer, we have a few days for you to go over the contract, communicate with a foreign teacher, and do further research if you like. As your agent, we are here to answer any questions you have and assist in any way we can.

However, without a job offer we have no option but to move on to a new potential position, so here are some key interview tips that can help you achieve optimum results. Basically, school directors are seeking the following combination:

- Enthusiasm
- An affinity with children
- A passion for teaching
- Good positive energy and possibly some humour.
- A good clear voice
- Hard-working and diligent teachers
- Adaptable and open-minded (the Korean way can be different from the western way)

Aside from the above, it is always good to have questions prepared to help a proper discourse along. The interviewee should not be silent, but be talkative and give the director a chance to get to know them.

- How many students per class?
- What are the ages of the students?
- What kind of curriculum do you use?
- Is there anything I can bring to add to the curriculum (this is a good one as it shows you have an inherent interest in being an educator).
- Anything else about the position itself that you would like to know.

We hope this proves helpful to you.

Good luck!
